CHILDAID is a humanitarian organisation formed by Irish Aid Workers and Defence Forces personnel who worked on Street Children's Projects in Africa and continue to support these projects. Funds collected will go to Street Children's Projects in the slums of East Africa. Conditions in the slums are desperately basic, with over half a million people living in abject poverty. Food is always a problem, with clean water and medicine very scarce. Thousands of children, many displaced and orphaned, desperately need help with food, clothing, sanitation, shelter, education and training.
